

Bremer Sane At Shooting

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — The prosecution rested its case with testimony from an experienced criminal psychiatrist Tuesday that while Arthur Herman Bremer was "mixed up," he was legally sane when Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and three other persons were wounded.

Dr. Shelia Hafter Gray of Chevy Chase, Md. said she diagnosed Bremer as a latent schizophrenic after examining him for five hours on July 15 and July 22 in his special cell at the Prince Georges County jail.

"He lacked substantial capacity to either appreciate the criminality of his conduct or to conform his conduct to the requirement of the law," Dr. Gray testified.

Bremer has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to 17 charges arising from the shooting of Wallace and three other persons.

Dr. Gray appeared Tuesday in the absence of the jury in order to establish doubt about Bremer's sanity so that the prosecution could call psychiatric witnesses. Judge Ralph W. Powers ruled that this doubt had been raised and ordered the jury returned.

The prosecution concluded presentation of factual evidence Tuesday.

FBI agents testified that laboratory tests were unable to link Bremer with the gun and bullets allegedly used in the attempted assassination of Wallace.

Appearing on the second day of Bremer's trial in Prince Georges County Circuit Court, the FBI men said they found no identifiable fingerprints on the .38-caliber revolver retrieved during the post-shooting confusion at the Laurel, Md., shopping center, where the shooting occurred.

The prosecution witnesses also said ballistics tests could not prove conclusively that the gun in evidence fired the bullets which left Wallace paralyzed and the other three injured.

The three other persons injured—Secret Service Agent Nicholas Zarvos, Alabama State Police Capt. E.C. Dothard and Wallace volunteer Dora Thompson—testified concerning their injuries.

Zarvos, speaking in a near whisper because of a paralyzed vocal cord from a bullet, said he was behind and to the side of Wallace as the candidate shook hands in the crowd
